Robert F. Noble was foully murdered the previous night. It appears that Mr. Noble was in company with several others went into the eating saloon of Mrs. Lobach, near the Market House, about 11 o'clock, for the purpose of procuring some refreshment, there being some five or six U. S. soldiers from the garrison in the room. The soldiers demanded something to drink, which was refused them by Mr. Lobach, whereupon they commenced a violent abuse of all present and threatened to attack the whole and whip those present—Mr. Noble and his friends being quietly seated during all that time. The soldiers then suddenly extinguished the light and commenced an attack upon the citizens present by throwing glasses and cutting about in the dark with knives, and before Mr. Noble could make his escape he received three severe wounds inflicted by a knife, one of which entered immediately below the shoulder-blade and penetrated the lungs.

An inquest was held by Coroner Smith and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts. Six soldiers, named T. H. Foeltz, William James, Stephen Wurtzbaugh, Frances Wiley, El. Priest, and Lewis Gardner, have been arrested and identified as the parties who committed the murder. —the last named being identified.

Treasury and War Reports.

For the fiscal year just closed the Secretary of the Treasury requires, in addition to the appropriations already made, $217,168,850, nearly all of which is for the Army and Navy; and for the year ending June 30, 1862, he estimates the probable demand upon the Treasury at $318,519,581.

By taxation, direct and indirect,	$20,000,000
By loans,	210,000,000
	$230,000,000

Modifications of the Tariff are urged, especially by levying duties upon articles now exempt, and upon others lightly taxed. For instance, he recommends a duty of 2 cents per pound on brown sugar, 3 cents per pound on clayed sugar, 4 cents per pound on loaf and other refined sugar; 3 cents per pound on syrup of sugar cane, 5 cents per gallon on molasses, 5 cents per pound on coffee, 15 cents per pound of black tea, and 20 cents per pound on green tea. All of which will, doubtless, be quite agreeable to the laboring classes of the country—especially those of them who have Fanaticism Still Active.

If the powers at Washington desire an exact the co-operation of the Union me of the Border States, in their attempts to maintain the Government, they must resign to the rear such pestilent fanatics as Mr. Lovejoy, of Illinois. If they cannot rebuke, in some fitting manner, the bitter abolition element as represented by him, Congress is in a bad way for the present.

gress, it is a great one that we perpetrate on our nationality in all its integrity. The passage of Mr. Lovejoy's resolution by the House—declaring that it is no part of the duty of our soldiers to return fugitive slaves—is a foolishly mischievous thing, calculated, in times like these, to stir up to hostile intensity the funds that were, in some degree, dying out under the pressure of the greater questions before the nation. It is one of those gratuitous abolition tricks, such

Surely the miserable agitators who have done so much to bring the nation into peril have had their way long enough in the thing, and ought to stand abashed at their own impotence, rather than to raise storm they have done so much to create. Surely there must be patriotism enough left under the roof of the Capitol to flow into insignificance the pitiful disciple of greed which would still seek a petty notoriety whilst the nation is almost in the throes of dissolution. But if there is not if these men are still allowed to embitter the hearts of the people, the evil will tend to the nation to the end of time and

We shall look with some anxiety to the future action of Congress on such topics thus introduced by the Illinois agitator. At a time when even Henry Ward Beecher and Gerritt Smith are constrained to speak of the South as a "peculiar institution," the evils they have helped to invoke, Congress owes to itself the duty of crushing factionism in its midst. With indignant scorn it should unmistakably frown down the triflers-with the vital interests of the nation until they cease to brandish their only weapon.

For hard times the speculation the steamer Cataline, burnt last week at Fortress Monroe, may be considered as satisfactorily profitable. Her first cost was $18,000. The cost of running her for two weeks would be much more than covered by the sale of the wreck.

by $10,000 more, making $28,000 outlay. She was chartered to the Government for $10,000 a month, making $25,000 for ten weeks. A provision in her charter requires to her owners $50,000, nearly three times her cost, in case she is lost. She will have returned then to the owners $75,000.

gross for ten weeks' service. But she was also insured, it is said, for $25,000, making an aggregate of $100,000. From this sum deduct the first cost and expense of running $28,000, and her net profit to the owners $72,000 for ten weeks.

John W. Forney, who was a candidate for Clerk of the House, has been hanged, and his body is now sojourningly and solemnly laid upon the shelf. Having served the purposes of the Republican party he is now abandoned to his fate; whilst the Republicans in Congress love the treason which he denounces the traitor, and although he was

Jeff. Davis Willing to Compromise.—Mr. Vallandigham, member of Congress from Ohio, is reported to have said, at Washington, on the 4th, that there are twenty-four members of the House who will vote against any appropriations for the army. He himself will vote for money and means for the defence of the capital, but not to carry war against the Southern States, as he knows that Jeff. Davis is willing to make: no promise and remain in the Union.—Read Gazette.
